This made from plastic waste collection, Seafuse, from Henry Beaumont features classic model Verona.

Dapper's Men QUANTUM collection strives to reduce exterior design to its bare essentials employing a unique spherical hinge to connect the titanium temple to the polycarbonate front, effectively eliminating extraneous components such as screws and bolts, seen here in forest green.

Natalia's new 100 per cent bio-based frames have been crafted from 100% natural material made in a 3D printing process. The frames with smooth, rounded edges andville are long-lasting, durable.

Humphrey's VINTAGE
Nature dominates this season's styling. This Humphrey's model from International Opticians has a earthy richness, in an unrefined, textured wood shape.

Andy Wolf's model Marshall is classic rich black and on trend transparent.

Lara D' model Divisia features cut out lenses in this acetate/metal combination.

OKD by OKD's Bella model reflects earth tones in a subtle acetate/metal frame.

KOHL DENMARK
Scandinavian minimalism, more mixed colours and a focus on the frame's form are some of the game for KOHL Denmark's young releases. The company produces eyewear specifically for those who require a smaller eye size and manage to include intricate detailing along the temples.

A standard square shape on the men's frame is deviated by a continuous piece of mottled acetate that provides a how-har look. The women's frame is a more complex design. Klink rests on the temple tips and then, visible hinges and screws are brought to the fore in an expression of the functional elements.

The women's frame is slightly more colourful with thin pink edge-detailing around the outer sides of the rim. The women's frame is slightly more cat-eye shaped and follows KOHL Denmark's minimal design philosophy.

TED BAKER
British luxury brand Ted Baker has released new frames for the spring season, one optical and one sun each for men and women. Housed in a dark brown acetate, the men's frame is called Blaine [1]. Colour blocking and milky textured tortoiseshell provide the colour to the contoured panache shape which flows into black temples. Fishing line-like cable sections of the temples add character and the acetate temples end in a logo complete the look.

Marty [2] is a monochromatic optical frame, reminiscent to a classic stick-in-the-mud look in red and white striped temples with red temple tips. Constructed from enamel and hand-painted, the temples emulate a wavy fabric and in its temple tips which make it look like a fish scale pattern.

The inspiration for the Hendrik [3] frame comes from rap culture and the streets, a nautical shaped sunglasses frame for men with an overexposed profile and a milled temple logo running down the length of the laminated acetate.

Palace sur l'Océan indien

L'arrivée au Royal Palm est suffisamment intimidante pour vous rappeler une chose : vous êtes ici au cœur d'une légende hôtelière de l'Île Maurice depuis 1985...
P> François Simon

Rassurez-vous, la force de ces grandes maisons, c'est de jouer sur ce genre d'ambiguïté. Prévoir un fronton, des salutations bâtie en bois et des portes en fer forgé, mais aussi faire croire à tout le long de votre séjour sur l'Île Maurice. Opulence/simplicité; beau monde/soleil; gastronomie/jeux de paume... Cet ex-Leading Hotel of the World, qui a été élu meilleur hôtel de l'île Maurice sur l'Île depuis 1995 a à ce titre subtil mais évident d'embarier dès que possible les visiteurs dans son univers. Un voyage sur la superbe plage, précédant de la photographie délibérée des vacanciers et des familles qui s'y promènent.

En fait, le Royal Palm est dans son rôle, dans son jeu. Celui de capturer les célébrités de la planète. Celles-ci y apportent leur gloire, leurs robes et leurs sacs à main. Mais elles sont également attirées par cette fascinante société, drôle, solaire, échouée de Bashi. Ces îles, ces îles tropicales, qui à leurs multiples voies peuvent dévoiler, car si l'inquipito, fut le quotidien ou malheur, fait partie des rituels de ce royaume hôtelier.

Déconnectez-vous

Fronton de fer forgé, il y a cinq ans, le Royal Palm a su réduire la voulue, passer de 84 suites à 69, affichant de vrais proportions de 600 m² (150 m²), terrasse débordante avec piscine intérieure et extérieure, une vue dévastatrice sur le lagon et l'océan. Depuis l'année dernière, le palace compte un nouveau spa. Il rérite aux plus grands spas de l'île, mais il a quelque chose de spécial. Le groupe Beachcomber s'est rapproché d'une jeune maison de cosmétiques française, qui a tous manner de voies pour dévoiler, car si l'inquipito, fut le quotidien ou malheur, fait partie des rituels de ce royaume hôtelier.

Dans ce sillage, le spa apporte ses réverberations: shiatsu, réflexologie, massages balinais ou soins de la peau.

Le spa, c'est un peu l'oubli du temps, sans chaleur, c'est cette déconnection surjouée, sa mise en scène habile vous proposant un rôle de star. D'autant qu'il y a la mer pour vous rappeler à la dose tranquille du plaisir. Et puis, il y a le jeu de paume, qui est une autre passion de l'île et d'intéressant finalement dans ce Royal Palm, c'est que personne n'est déplacé, chacun est à sa place. Vous restez à trouver la vôtre, celle qui va vous faire vibrer.
